Ken Gill was the most prominent communist trade unionist of his generation, leading TASS then MSF from 1974 to 1992 when he retired, and chairing Cuba Solidarity Campaign from 1993 until 2008. A lifelong supporter of the Morning Star and long-serving chair of Peoples Printing Press Society, he was a tireless fighter for peace and socialism, for his members and for the working class movement in Britain and internationally. The Fund, which will operate until 2017, will be used to keep his memory alive and to continue his life work. More information at www.kengillmemorial.org
